HIRAM JONHSON DIES AT LONDON

Laurel - Jackson - Clay Circuit Judge Was Making History In Law Enforcement

London, Ky., July 4.—Circuit Judge Hiram J. Johnson, noted mountain jurist, died at his home here at 3:40 o'clock Monday afternoon, following an illness of ten days. For a number of years he has suffered periodically from a severe stomach trouble, but immediate cause of his death is attributed by his physicians and the specialists who have attended him to a general breakdown resulting from the overwork and nervous strain he has undergone during the past six months as circuit judge of the 27th judicial district.

Elected to the office of circuit judge last November upon a clear-cut platform of law enforcement, he assumed the duties of the office January 1st with the solemn pledge to the people that he would clean up the district or resign from office.

At that time and for many months previous, the counties of the 27th district, Laurel, Clay, and Jackson, were fairly overrun with moonshiners and bootleggers, and outlaws had reached such a stage that schools and churches were being broken up in many communities and citizens were afraid to travel upon the public roads. Shooting into homes, breaking up public gatherings and terrorizing of peaceful men, women and children, had become a common sport with drunken rowdies and chronic law violators.

Clay county was being demoralized and depopulated by the Benge-Martin-Phipps feud. The better element of citizens, though in the majority, were discouraged and most of them actually believed that the laws could not be enforced to put a stop to the general and vicious move of lawlessness over this section of the mountains.

Their only hope of saving their homes and their institutions was in Johnson, whom they knew to be a splendid lawyer, and a fearless man, but he, they said, could not be expected to accomplish what no other circuit judge in the whole county had accomplished, the complete subjection of all classes of law breakers.

But he did. So quick and so marvelous was his success in stopping the Clay county feud, in riding Laurel, Jackson and Clay of moonshining, bootlegging, and rowdism as never before had been known or even hoped for, that in less than three months after he began his work, his name was a household word throughout the mountains and he was known in every state in the union.

A few weeks ago, when talk and press comment throughout the state had reached the proportions of a strong boom for him for governor of Kentucky, he announced through the press that he was not and never would be a candidate for any other office, that his only ambition was to fulfill his pledge to the people of the 27th judicial district.

A strong, fearless, intensive man of indomitable will and high purpose, he gave all that was in him, even his life, to make good the solemn pledge he had made. His death at this time is regarded as a calamity to the public, and thousands of mountain homes are today mourning him as their greatest benefactor.

Judge Johnson was 44 years of age. A native of Laurel county, he was educated in the public schools and the Sue Bennett Memorial School here and took the degree of law at Washington law school while he was holding a clerkship in one of the government departments. He served two terms as county attorney of Laurel county.

He was a student and thinker and one of the most brilliant orators in the mountains. His family consists of a wife and four children. The funeral services will be held at his home here at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The body will lie in state in the court house from 9 o'clock in the morning until noon.

Judge Johnson began his term of office the first of the year with the public pledge that he would stop lawlessness in the 27th judicial district or resign. His first court session was held at McKee, Jackson county, where he tried

FREE STATE VICTORY OVER IRREGULARS

(By Associated Press)

Dublin, July 4.—Irish national troops gained entrance to the Gresham Hotel, headquarters of the irregulars this morning by the use of smoke bombs and hand grenades. Armored cars continued to pour a devastating fire into the irregulars' positions. The Hotel Hamman, held by republican insurgents, is on fire this afternoon. National army troops are attacking the irregulars front and rear. Their surrender is momentarily expected.

150 penal cases. Verdicts of guilty were returned against 140 of these, most of which were for moonshining, bootlegging and carrying concealed weapons.

The grand jury returned 400 indictments, a number of which were against former county and district officers. A former county judge, former sheriff and a deputy sheriff were among those indicted. Investigations by this grand jury were said to have been the most sweeping ever conducted in Jackson county. Judge Johnson requiring county officers to appear and say whether they had been drinking while in office. Judge Johnson always demand truthful testimony from witnesses, and in many cases where persons testified that they had "failed to remember" or "don't know" he sent them to jail to recover their mental faculties.

A very religious man, Judge Johnson frequently opened court with prayer or readings from the Bible. He called on the women of his district to aid in the enforcement of the laws, declaring that the men would not do wrong if the women would go out to put an end to bootlegging and moonshining.

Shortly before the wholesale arrest of the Mill Creek residents Judge Johnson made an appeal to a group of moonshiners and bootleggers, declaring that they were bringing disgrace to their county and to the state by their activities. Then, after a prayer in court, 25 men confessed that they had been making liquor and Judge Johnson permitted them to return home to bring in their stills.

Hoop Skirts Easy, Say

Actresses, But Bustles!

Pity the women of 1885! So say the women playing in "Milestones," the new Goldwyn picture to be shown at the local theatres Tuesday, July 4. During the first episode Alice Hollister, Mary Alden and others of the cast mimed about delightedly in hoop skirts, the scenes being laid in 1860. They declared the hoops did not bother them a bit. But when they got into the tight fitting basques and bustles of 1885, it was a different story. The dress waists were heavily boned, extremely straight and tight fitting. The bustles were constantly slipping to one side.

"It must have taken the patience of a saint to wear the things," says Mary Alden. "My, it's a joy to step out of this costume and into a loose fitting sport suit. Women of today don't know how thankful they should be!"

RICHMOND MAN HAS FINE VOYAGE ACROSS

A friend here has received a note from Col. H. B. Hanger from Southampton, England, dated June 24, in which he in part said: "Everything is going fine. No one has been sea sick in my party. This ship (Majestic) is a floating palace, with luxurious fittings everywhere, no bunks but splendid beds in every cabin. Never was anything built before like this ship. The meals and service are all one could desire. Have met some very congenial people. The girls (daughter and niece) are having a good time — enjoying dancing and swimming in the pool.

"We go from here to Cherbourg, France, where we land, and thence to Paris, where we shall stay awhile.

PLAN TAKES TEETH FROM FAMOUS ARTICLE 10

(By Associated Press)

Paris, July 4.—The plan for general world disarmament that was laid before the temporary mixed commission on disarmament of the League of Nations yesterday, was presented in full detail today to the commission. The plan, favorably received, provides that all nations sign a disarmament agreement and agree to go to the defense of nations in respective regions or continents in case of aggression. It is the claim that the principal objections to Article 10 by the United States would be met by the regional defensive plan inasmuch as this country already is committed to a similar policy of this continent under the Monroe Doctrine.

SHOP MEN AGAIN DEFY FEDERAL LABOR BOARD

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, July 4.—The striking railway-shop unions today served definite notice on the Federal Labor Board that they no longer considered themselves obligated to the board and were prepared to pull a lone car in settling the strike. At the same time officials of the maintenance of way union are in conference with members of the board in an effort to stifle the threatened strike of common labor. The outcome is dubious. President E. G. Grable said he would tear up the strike orders only if the board rescinded its wage scale cut which became effective last Saturday.

Hotel is Captured

(By Associated Press)

Duglin, July 4.—Hanman's Hotel in Sackville street, one of the main positions of the insurgents, was captured by the national army this afternoon. Thirty men surrendered to the Free State troops after the building had taken fire.

It is unofficially reported that Countess Markievicz and a few women snipers were captured when their ammunition gave out. Three more buildings in Sackville street were occupied by the Free State troops late today.

All Promises Fair For Picnic

(By Associated Press)

There are few in town today. Everybody has gone to Boonesboro to celebrate the Fourth of July with the American Legion. After rain on Monday the day is ideal and a great relief after the hot days of last week. From 10,000 to 12,000 are expected to attend during the day. All business has suspended in Richmond and many business houses in the neighboring city of Winchester are closed for the day to allow their employees to attend the festivities of the picnic and the base ball game in the afternoon.

CLARENCE E. WOODS RETURNS TO FLORIDA

Friends here were pleased to learn of the appointment of Clarence E. Woods, former Mayor of Richmond and a local editor, as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Sumpter county, Florida. Mr. Woods has been staying at Crab Orchard Springs for several weeks, but left there Friday morning for his new work. The salary attached to the office is understood to be $2,500 a year. Clarence E. Woods is known all over Kentucky for the enthusiastic energy and zeal that he brings into every enterprise with which he may become connected, and his many warm friends are predicting that he will prove an ideal man to handle the work he is undertaking in Florida. He has been a resident of that state for several years, having for a time been editor of a paper at Ennis, later Explosive Inspector under the government for Florida, during the war, and then representative of a large industrial school.

CELEBRATIONS AT NORMAL FOR FOURTH

Dr. A. W. Fortune, pastor of the Central Christian church in Lexington, delivered a patriotic address to the Normal School students at 8:30 o'clock July 4. Dr. Fortune is a great orator and his message is always well worth hearing. On this occasion it was especially beautiful. His address was on the subject, "The Teacher as the Maker of America." He stated how the teacher of the youth of a nation furnished the ideals, inspiration and instruction in co-operation and obedience for the manhood of the country. He stressed the importance in strict obedience to law.

Prof. Charles A. Keith read the Declaration of Independence. Patriotic songs were sung by the audience. The public was invited to participate in the exercises and to hear this distinguished Kentuckian. This was the regular chapel exercises for the school after which all classes were dismissed for the day.

There will be a picnic for all Normal School students on the Barnes Mill pike in the afternoon. Games, songs and stunts will be enjoyed besides a fine picnic lunch which is under the direction of Mrs. Cynda Karr, head of Sullivan Hall.

No Markets Today

Tuesday is the Fourth of July, the great National holiday. Stock yards in Cincinnati, Louisville and other centers are all closed so no market reports are available. The government does not send out a weather bulletin either, all government departments being closed.

STOCK SALES BRISK HERE COURT DAY

E. W. Carson reports that sales at his stock yards Monday were much the same as those of last month. One load of ewes sold at 8 1-2c but that ewes and lambs brought about 10c. There were 1,000 sheep on his market. He had no hogs and 900 cattle sold from 5c to 7 1-2c.

There were 2,200 cattle on the market at the J. W. Creech stock yards, according to a report given out by Mr. Creech with sales similar to those of last month. They brought from 7 1-2c down according to quality, and were selling slow.

Two hundred hogs brought from 12c down. With 1,250 sheep on the market, ewes were bringing from $10.50 down, according to quality.

There were very few horses and mules for sale, but some were changing hands at fair prices.

VICTORIOUS LADIES GET CONGRATULATIONS

Members of the Serving Circle of the First Baptist church are being congratulated on all sides upon their splendid victory in the Lexington Herald's contest in which they captured the prize a Studebaker car. Rev. O. O. Green, pastor, told of the many messages of congratulations at the service Sunday morning, and read a written one from Hon. J. A. Sullivan, which he said was one of the most appreciated.

Richmond, June 30.

Rev. O. O. Green:
My Dear Dr. Green:
I have read in this morning's Herald with real pleasure the information that the Serving Circle of your congregation had won the first prize in the contest conducted by the Lexington Herald.

I hoped for this result to come to pass, but no Baptist was confident that it would occur. But the big victory in this little contest was not winning the prize though it is substantial. The big victory is it reveals what a spirit of unity and harmony under intelligent guidance can achieve. I trust that this spirit and leadership will grow more abundantly for the larger undertaking, viz., the construction of a new Baptist church here in the near future.

Again congratulating you and the Serving Circle on the result of the contest, I am,

Yours sincerely,
J. A. SULLIVAN.

While May showed an increase over April, the production still was not up to that of May, 1921, by 28,000 barrels.

The production for May, 1922, was 798,334.04 barrels valued at $1,709,341.72, and for April, 733,506 barrels valued at $1,477,426.65. For May 1921, the production was 826,317.59 barrels, valued at $1,488,837.65.

Lee county continued to lead the state, producing 312,839 barrels with Warren second, with 107,788.85 barrels and Magoffin third with 104,859.20 barrels.

REED WILLIAMS NAMED IN CLAYHOLE NEWS

Richmond Man Alleged To Have Tried To Arrange Compromise of Cases

Catlettsburg, Ky., July 4.—Charges that Mitchell S. Crain, of Jackson, defeated republican candidate for the state senatorship in the last election, and Reed Williams of Richmond Ky., sought to arrange a compromise agreement in the Clayhole murder cases tried here, were made by the four convicted defendants of the first case, Leslie Combs, George Allen, Jr., French and Shade Combs, today in a signed statement. The charges were vigorously denied by Mr. Crain and Mr. Williams in statements made public after their reading of the prisoners' declaration.

The prisoners' statement notes Mitchell Crain as saying:

"I have the same jurisdiction over there (meaning Boyd county) over the commonwealth attorney and over that judge as I have over here and they will do like Judge Hurst. If you go on and don't compromise, you can't tell what they will swear against you and you will be sorry."

Referring to Reed Williams, their statement says:

"Williams told us if we would compromise when we got back to Jackson that they would see that we could get bond and a new hearing and a new trial; if we would turn Musick off as a lawyer, and if we would take Patton and let him represent the whole thing."

"The judge will do just what we tell him to do and you need not doubt that," Williams was quoted as having said.

"We are proud of Musick's attitude and have confidence that he has acted and will act so as to do his duty to us, our people and our honor. Not one of our four lawyers ever agreed to or considered a compromise," the statement concludes.

Williams, a business man of Richmond, Ky., said:

"I told the defendants they never would have been in court if it had not been for Musick. Last Tuesday night Mrs. George Allen, Jr., wife of one of the convicted men came to me with Harless Campbell at a boarding house in Catlettsburg, and asked me and Bill Barnett to fix up a compromise. Bill Campbell told her then that he was as good a democrat as her husband and that if that meant anything he ought to be able to do something, but he could not and that he was going home in the morning."

"Les Combs told me that Musick was in the way of a compromise. Shade Combs said he wanted a compromise and George Allen when I talked with them, told me to see Bill Campbell and see what he said."

LEGION HAS FINE TICKET SALE FRIDAY

Friday was the first big day for the American Legion in the sale of season tickets for the Chautauqua which opens here on next Wednesday.

STATE DRY LAW VERY STRINGENT

(By Associated Press)

Frankfort, Ky., July 3—Violators of the Kentucky prohibition law may be able to pay their fine and thus avoid serving out any of the money penalty in jail, but even when they have served out the jail sentence provided, they may not be able to gain their freedom, as a result of the Court of Appeals declaring the Rash-Gullion prohibition enforcement act constitutional. For under the law he must either give bond of from $1,000 to $5,000 in the discretion of the court, that he will not violate the law for 12 months, or else serve ninety additional days in jail.

The decision of the court was in the case of Matt Lakes, who sought a writ of prohibition to prevent the county judge of Madison county trying him and attacking the constitutionality of the law. The opinion of the court was sweeping, holding the law constitutional in every particular. Officials here say that hundreds of cases held in abeyance will now be tried.

The law gives justices of the peace, police judges and county judges, as well as circuit courts, jurisdiction in liquor law violation where the penalty does not exceed $300 fine and 60 days in jail. Previously only circuit courts could try the cases and this was held by many to invalidate the enforcement of the constitutional provisions because of necessary delays. The law was drawn in the office of Attorney General Charles I. Dawson.

The law is said to be one of the stringent enforcement laws in the United States. It authorizes peace officers to seize intoxicants wherever found and provides for search warrants of a sweeping nature. Not only are search warrants provided for, but it also is provided that property seized under insufficient search warrants shall not be returned unless the owner proves in court that the liquor was legally acquired.

Except for corporations, the law does not permit a sentence that does not include a jail sentence. The minimum fine is $50 and the maximum $500 on first offenses and the jail sentences not to exceed six months.

The law provides that for manufacturing liquor illegally the punishment for the first offense shall be a fine of $100 to $500 and two to six months in jail; second offense, one to five years in prison and third offense two to ten years in prison.

An Old-Time Tub

When J. M. Woolums was in Clover Bottom last week he was shown, at the home of Ed Carter, an old time tub hollowed out from the solid butt of a gum tree four feet high and six feet in diameter. This tub was made by ovry Mundy, who was among the first settlers of this district. It is 135 years old and is now in possession of the fourth generation from Mr. Mundy. This giant tub is said to hold five barrels of corn or fifty bushels. It is a great curiosity and is highly prized by the present owner. It is doubtful if there is another one in the State like it either in construction or age.—Willmore Enterprise.

ly large crowd in attendance. The church which had been beautifully decorated inside by Reed Juett and his efficient force from Richmond was inadequate to accommodate the crowd. There were eight of the eleven churches represented by delegations and the programs rendered by them were highly entertaining and greatly enjoyed, so much so, while the weather was very hot but stuck right to the benches.

The program lasted most of the day. Abundants of good eats were served at the noon hour by the ladies of the church and seemed to be a very enjoyable feature of the program. The programs were all splendid. It was generally conceded that the College Hill delegation carried off the prize. C. M. Tribble, the very efficient president, was unanimously re-elected for another year. The committee on time and place reported the next convention to be at the Baptist church at Waco, the first Saturday in July, 1923. There was a spirit of christian fellowship and union manifested throughout the entire program and the convention was adjourned at 3:30 with the general belief that it was one of the best conventions ever held.

Is Money Ever "Spent" for Advertising?

A young and energetic executive took hold of a fine old retail business in New York.

"What this business needs, he told himself, "is a place in the mind of the public."

And deliberately he set out to sacrifice the greater volume of his profits and invest the sacrifice into the building of goodwill.

He did. And to this old business, advertising was the breath of life.

For six months had not passed before the business had grown so that the advertising cost was a smaller percentage than ever it had been, and, because of a larger volume, the shop effected economics and gave far superior service.

That was five years ago. Today a certain percentage to be spent, or supposed to be spent, for advertising. But as fast as the appropriation is spent, the more the business increase; and the more that the business increases, the smaller the percentage becomes.

Dry Question Is Active In Wisconsin

(By Associated Press)

Milwaukee, Wis., July 1.—Indications are that prohibitionists of Wisconsin will at the coming primaries divide their votes between candidates of the different parties who favor law enforcement, while the wets it is indicated will support candidates either on the progressive, republican, LaFollette ticket, whose platform makes no mention bearing on the liquor question, or the Socialist ticket, whose platform favors light wine and beer, and a possible candidate on the democratic ticket yet to be named will favor an amendment to the Volstead act, providing for the sale of light wines and beer.

NORMAL NOTES

Dr. Irving Abell, the great surgeon, of Louisville, and who was a Colonel in the recent world war and as such had charge of an immense base hospital in France, and near the front, to which hundreds of American boys who had been wounded in battle were daily admitted, has been invited to deliver a lecture on some surgical or medical subject to be selected by him, to the Normal School student body.

Senator William L. Wallace, of Richmond, has also been invited to deliver a lecture to the Normal School student body on the laws enacted by the last General Assembly or on any one or more of those enactments—subject to be selected by him.

Hon. E. J. McDermott, ex-Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky and a professor in the Law Department of the University of Louisville, has also been invited to deliver a lecture on some legal subject to be selected by him, to the Normal student body and faculty. Any of the three above named lecturers may select his own time to deliver the lectures, provided it be not a Monday or Saturday.

Enrollment of students for the summer term at the Normal School and Teachers' College began last Tuesday morning and up to Saturday evening more than 640 students were enrolled. Of these four-fifths are high school and college graduates and most of them are now teachers in city or county high schools in this Normal School district. It is expected that the student body will continue to increase here during the next few weeks. The attendance is already greater than it was last year for the whole summer term. It seems that the 33 summer Normal schools provided for by the last General Assembly has not affected attendance here at all.

Of the students now at summer school here 65 are young men who were seriously wounded or gassed in our world war and they are getting pensions in varying monthly amounts up to $135 monthly, with which to obtain an education and these 65 have selected this Normal as their choice school to attend for their preparation for life.

Prof. T. J. Coates, President of Eastern Normal and Teachers' College, is at Atlantic City attending the National Educational Association.

A man often forgets the exact name of the article he wishes to purchase, and as a last resort takes something else instead. That is always disappointing and unsatisfactory. The safe way is to cut this out and take it with you so as to make sure of getting Chamberlain's Tablets. You will find nothing quite so satisfactory for constipation and indigestion.

Barbecue and Fox Hunt In Woodford County

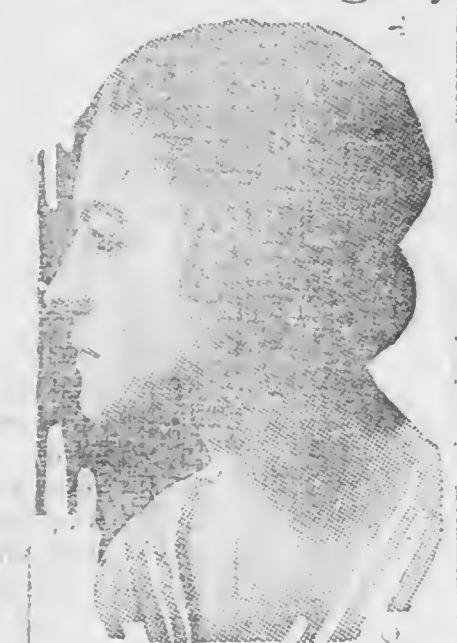

The Wilmore Enterprise says: For hunters from all around Central Kentucky at a barbecue supper and fox chase at Johnson's bridge in Woodford county Friday, June 23rd. They met at 6 o'clock and it was a happy lunch. Mr. Sam Woolridge, of Versailles, was the host and the barbecue meal furnished by him was thoroughly enjoyed by the assembled hunters.

After the picnic other fox hunters arrived and joined the crowd and they then proceeded to the fox grounds with about 75 dogs. A fox was started almost as soon as the hounds were turned loose. He made a bee-line for Pinckard and was still running when the writer left for home. Coming back by way of the camp a four gallon hard can of coffee was there ready for the hunters to refresh themselves before going home. It was a great evening.

Dr. E. C. McDougale filled his appointment Sunday afternoon at the Christian church.

AN INTERESTING OLD CLIPPING

Mrs. Fannie Freeman Hawes has shown the Daily Register a clipping from the Mountain Democrat, published here in 1860, which contains a communication regarding the examination of pupils of Miss Ruth Hastings, who taught in the old Presbyterian Female School. "Miss Fannie F." mentioned was Mrs. Hawes. Many of the older citizens will remember the circumstances undoubtedly.

For the Mountain Democrat. Richmond, Ky., June 18, 1860. Mr. Editor: Being compelled to remain in your town during the past week, I concluded to attend the closing exercises of the Presbyterian Female School, under the charge of Miss Ruth Hastings. The audiences were large, being composed of the elite of Richmond, and the scholars, in passing through the different examinations in their respective studies, gave, I believe, general satisfaction.

There is something about the closing scenes of school examinations that always makes me feel sad. 'Tis the separation from school companions. The associations connected with school days, where the mind is free from thought and care, when we look back upon the past as a happy dream, and think not of the future, makes them happy days indeed. It is only where we are compelled to leave the school room, and take our respective places on the stage of life, that we realize the happiest of school days. It is there we regret the separation of friends, who are bound to us by strong ties of affection. And when we grasp the hand to say, "Farewell," we feel the tear start, and cannot utter what we would wish to say. How often, when struggling through this cold and uncharitable world, will memory recall the past associations of our youthful days.

I cannot close this without referring to the examination of Miss Fannie F., of this place. She possessed a thorough knowledge of all her studies, and passed one of the best examinations that I ever witnessed. I would say to Miss Fannie, to plod on; the road to fame awaits you. Let ambition be one of the ruling emotions of your life; may she beckon you on with her ruddy rays, and though the hill of science may be difficult to ascend, remember that time, faith, and energy will accomplish much.—(Stranger).

JUNIOR FARM CAMPS ARE NOW OPENING

(By Associated Press)
Lexington, Ky., July 3—Hundreds of Kentucky farm boys and girls today are expected to gather at three different points in the state for the opening of the three series of junior agricultural club camps to be held during July and August by the College of Agriculture extension division.

A camp will be opened in Lewis county for boys and girls from Lewis and Fleming counties, another in Simpson county for junior agricultural club members of that district while the third will be opened in Christian county for Christian and Todd county members.

Every Monday thereafter continuing through August 21 three camps will be opened in as many different counties in the state, a total of 24 having been arranged. Boys and girls from a total of 48 counties will have an opportunity to attend, in some cases as many as six counties combining to put on a camp. Each of the camps will last four days.

Club authorities at the College of Agriculture predict that between three and four thousand farm youngsters will be given a well planned outing during the summer months by means of the camps which have become an annual event in junior agricultural club work.

From 6 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening, those who attend the outings will have a full program of events, according to the programs which have been arranged. The development of junior agricultural club ideals, nature study, home club plans, health and first aid, agricultural and home economics all are to have a place in the list of subjects which have been arranged for the youngsters to study while supervised play and recreation, vesper services, and camp fire meetings also will be given an important place in making the outings complete.

A feature of one series of the camps will be a demonstration on the receiving of radio market reports and concerts which will be given by Elmer Leachman, 17-years-old, a McLean county junior agricultural club member, who has become one of the state's boy radio wizards.

Why Suffer From Rheumatism?
Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which requires any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleep and rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism.

JUDGE BENTON GETS FINE WILD GEESSE

(By Associated Press)
Winchester, Ky., July 3—Judge J. M. Benton is planning to introduce a new strain of wild geese in Clark county. His uncle, Mr. Elisha Covington, of Clay county, Missouri, who visited here two years ago, has sent Judge Benton a setting of wild goose eggs and these eggs are due to hatch in a few days. Mr. Covington, in writing about this particular breed of wild geese, states that when they are grown they are very gentle and very smart, and says that the farmers of Clay county, Missouri, are beginning to use them instead of horns on their automobiles. The geese are readily trained to ride on the cars and to give the necessary alarm signals by a series of honks when meeting or passing other cars, or when going around a curve or approaching an intersection of another road. Each particular goose or gander knows his master's voice and the rumble of his master's car and is always dependable and the honking apparatus is always in perfect condition.

The hatchery in Clark county will be located on the farm near Pine Grove, which is being operated by Judge Benton and Lee Stokely, and which is abundantly supplied with water, and if the venture is successful, they will start a branch hatchery at Eustis, Florida, that will be under the supervision of Mr. A. H. Sympton, who formerly lived here.

Judge J. M. Benton, prominent lawyer, is a former circuit judge of the 25th judicial district and attained prominence during his term for his human and effective settling of mountain feud cases vented in his court.
